

It is about time for this archaic rule to be reexamined. Simple nudity would be much preferable to all the violence broadcast today. There is no need to repeat the crazy over-reactions of the past like the Jackson-super bowl incident. Simple nudity should be allowed. Explicit language, although undesirable, is how most of America speaks. Requiring that to be censored is often comical and has no effect on our sensibilities. Free the broadcasters to make these decisions for themselves.